Roadmap 2050 related goals of the Hungarian Presidency

- Roadmap 2050 presented at the Environmental Council Session, 17 March 2011

Goal:

Adopt conclusions at

- Informal Session of Environmental Council, Luxembourg, 17 June 2011

and/or

- European Council, Brussels, 24 June 2011

Expected Results

- Reduction of GHG emissions significantly contributes to economic and social development
- Low-carbon economy offers benefits and a major pay-off
- Creation of Natural Capital benefits less developed regions
- Funds and investments stimulate the internal market
- Increased competitiveness through reduced operation costs
- Improvement of public health
- Increased independence from third country energy sources

Definite Challenges

- Post-Cancun emission gap requires industrialized nations to achieve more
- Create long-term, cost efficient financing solutions
- Resource Efficient Europe
- Increased competition from China and the USA
