

8th EU ETS Compliance Conference

Report on break-out session 2

Facilitating reporting

Conclusions break-out session II (1)

- Familiarity with current templates and reluctance to change procedure mid-way the third trading period have been barriers for MS to make greater use of Article 13 MRR.
- Fourth trading period provides an opportunity to make better use of Article 13 MRR
- Simplifications for phase IV should not only be limited to the scope of the regulations, there are also possibilities through tools, templates, exemplars and capacity building that support the implementation of the regulations

Action

Conclusions break-out session II (2)

- Good regulation is only half the story good guidance is equally important. Quick guides are good mechanisms to lead parties through the guidance material and tools developed. What about having interactive guidance?
- TF can play a role in supporting the development of future simplifications; e.g. exemplars, training events, peer reviews and simplification in templates, as well as implementation of current simplification options.
- IT is playing an increasingly important role in MS' implantation of MRV and the E-Reporting task force continues to seek further harmonisation.
